New hotspot declared

GIRAWEEN NATIONAL PARK, SOUTHERN QUEENSLAND COUNTRY

The Queensland Government has declared Adelaide a COVID-19 hotspot, effective from 11:59pm AEST, Monday 16 November 2020.

Any person arriving today, or who is currently in Queensland and has been in Adelaide since Monday 9 November 2020, should immediately get tested, even if they have no symptoms. These visitors (or returning Queensland residents) should stay isolated at home or in a hotel until 23 November 2020 (14 days since Monday 9 November 2020).

Visitors from Adelaide arriving to Queensland after 11:59pm AEST this evening will not be allowed entry (unless they are a Queensland resident, in which case they will be permitted entry and required to enter mandatory hotel quarantine at their own expense).

What you need to do: if you have guests staying or travelling with you who have been in Adelaide since Monday 9 November 2020, you should urge them to be tested and isolate immediately. You are able to refuse service and should ensure you this is advised through your booking process.
