

Attitudes towards living in their local area

In the study, we asked respondents to select one of three statements to describe how they feel about living in their local area. The study revealed that the majority of Gladstone residents 'enjoy living here' and a quarter (26%) 'really like' living in the area.

	GLAD		QLD
	2017	2019	2019
Really like it, can't think of anywhere else I would rather live	23%	26%	40%
Enjoy living here but can think of other places I would enjoy equally	61%	59%	51%
I only live here because circumstances demand it	16%	15%	9%

i.e. 26% of Gladstone respondents chose this statement as best describing how they feel about living in their local area

Attitudes towards tourism in local area

Respondents answered a series of questions about their attitudes towards tourism in their local area. For each question they picked a statement that best reflects their view.

This showed that attitudes are positive towards tourism. Three quarters of residents (76%) 'really like' tourists and a similar proportion, 71%, think their local area should attract more tourists. These proportions are both higher than the Queensland average.

"...it makes me very happy to have tourists come and visit this great part of Australia."

Gladstone resident, 2019

We also saw eight in ten (82%) residents happy with continued growth in tourism. This proportion has grown from 74% in 2017 to 82% in 2019, this is also higher than the Queensland average.

"I think overall if the negative aspects are managed well tourism can be of great overall benefit to the community jobs and local Business."

Respondents were then asked to rate the overall impact tourism has on their community, and on them personally, by using a seven-point scale ranging from 'very negatively (-3)' to 'very positively (+3)'.

% agree that tourism has a positive impact on...

	2017	GLAD 2019	QLD 2019

Perceptions of tourism's impact are more positive in 2019 than in 2017. Gladstone residents are now significantly more likely than the average Queenslanders to agree that tourism has a positive impact on the community. Seven in 10 (71%) of residents agree that tourism has a positive impact on the community, compared with 45% in Queensland. One in six (17%) agree that tourism has a positive impact on their personal quality of life.

i.e. 16% of Queensland respondents rated tourism as affecting their personal quality of life 'positively (2)' or 'very positively (3)'.

Positive and negative impacts of tourism

Respondents were then asked if they agree or disagree with seven positive and eight negative statements about the possible impacts of tourism. Those that agree with a statement were asked to rate its impact on their community, and on them personally, by using a seven-point scale ranging from 'very negatively (-3)' to 'very positively (+3)'.

Gladstone residents overwhelmingly agree that, because of tourism, there is: greater cultural diversity (95%), economic benefits (95%), an increased regional profile (93%), increased local pride (85%), and benefits shared evenly (50%). These positive benefits are seen to impact the community more than the individual. Since 2017, an increase of regional profile grew from 86% to 93%.

The level of agreement with seven of the eight negative statements is significantly lower than in the rest of Queensland.

In summary

The Gladstone region sits within the Southern Great Barrier Reef tourism region (SGBR). The SGBR region hosted 2.5 million overnight visitors in the year ending June 2019, and the tourism industry contributes 4.7% of its gross regional product.

The majority of Gladstone's 63,000 residents enjoy living where they do. They recognise that the town is industrial, and many find their local area is friendly and quiet. Residents also have the nearby Great Barrier Reef at the top of their mind.

Through the study, we see that broad sentiment towards tourism is more positive than the Queensland average. Three quarters of residents 'really like' tourists and a similar proportion would like their local area to attract more tourists. There is a strong desire for continued tourism growth, and this has increased since 2017.

Agreement with the positive benefits of tourism is significantly above the Queensland average in three areas, while agreement with potential negative benefits was significantly below Queensland in seven areas.
